INCREASE IN INTRA-STATE RATES UPHELD

Supreme Court Says Railroad Fares Effected by Interstate Commerce Commission Valid.

TAFT READS DECISION
Doubtful Whether Future State Legislatures Can Re-Enact Annulling Two-Cent Laws.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Increase in intra-state railroad rates, put into effect in all states by the Interstate Commerce Commission during 1920-1921, were upheld by the Supreme Court today.

The decision read by Chief Justice Taft was one of the most important handed down in the last decade. The court declared constitutional that part of the rate-making provision of the Esch-Cummings law which gave the Interstate Commerce Commission virtually complete control of intra-state as well as interstate rates.

This provision of the law was attacked by forty-three states on the grounds that the sovereign rights were invaded by statute, and that Congress had no authority to give the commission control of intra-state rates but only of interstate matters.

The intra-state rate increases made in August 1920 declared valid today include: passenger fares, excess baggage, milk and cream, 20 per cent; on pullman accommodations, 30 per cent; and freight in western states, 35 per cent.

The same increases were applied to interstate rates, but these were not involved in the suit decided today.

The decision is agreed virtually swept out the powers of state railroad commissions unless the interstate commerce commission delegates them some power.

Whether state legislatures in the future can re-enact two-cent fare laws annulled by war emergency is doubtful.

MARCH 26 DATE FOR M. E. DRIVE

$15,000 of Columbia's Share of Foundation Campaign Fund Given.

The various national church boards have pledged $175,000 to the foundation here and this money has been set aside and is ready for use. The people of the state are responding as well as might be expected, according to the Rev. W. L. Hallerstadt, who is in charge of raising the state quota of $125,000.

Hoover said the conference should work out wave lengths schedules for districts instead of individuals, and advocate certain times of day when the air may be used by various phone agencies. There is no hope, Hoover said, that the wireless phone ever could be used as the present telephone between individuals. Hence he believes the conference should decide as to what information could be spread by wireless phone that would be valuable to the people.

RURAL BUYERS TO CO-OPERATE

Association to Be Formed Next Saturday—Farmers Buy Stock Eagerly.

An organization meeting of farmers who have subscribed capital stock in the Columbia Farmers Co-operative Buying and Warehouse Association will be held at the courthouse at 1 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, according to plans of the organization committee, made known today. Articles of incorporation and a constitution and set of by-laws will be adopted at that time and a board of directors will be elected. The meeting will be open to all interested.

About seventy-five shares of stock were subscribed at the school-house meetings last week, according to reports made by the organization committee. Saturday in the offices of the Columbia Co-operative Shipping Association. The committee is composed of Thad Hickman, Elmo Biggs and Paul Henderson.

"The results obtained at these school-house meetings, where more than 60 per cent of those attending took stock, were more than satisfactory," said a member of the committee. "There is little doubt that the majority of farmers around Columbia are strongly in favor of an organization of this kind."

Nine schoolhouse meetings have already been held, and three or four are scheduled for this week. The campaign for stock subscriptions will be continued this week, as resident solicitors have been appointed in each section, to carry on the work. The organization committee is confident that by next Saturday enough stock to justify immediate organization and early operation will have been taken.

The local warehouse association is independent of any other agricultural organization, local or otherwise. The member continued. "It will begin in a small way, operating on a conservative basis, increasing its scope of work and field of activities at such times and only when conditions and circumstances seem to justify."
